DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

Species I. Method and apparatus for severing a single-plate brittle material substrate (claims 3-11 and 30-38 appear to read on this species).

Species II. Method and apparatus for severing a bonded brittle material substrate (claims 12-18 and 39-45 appear to read on this species).

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

The following claim(s) are generic: claims 1, 2, 28, and 29 are generic to Species I and II.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

Kohyama et al. (U.S. 4,275,494) teaches a method for severing a brittle material substrate by scribing, comprising a first scribing step of performing scribing in a state in which a protective material (protective SiO₂ film—column 4, lines 37-49) is provided on at least one substrate surface of the brittle material substrate, and using a glass cutter (column 5, lines 33-39). Kohyama et al. is silent regarding the structure of the glass cutter.

Wakayama (U.S. 5,836,229) discloses a glass cutter in the form of a cutter wheel with grooves formed in a ridge of the cutter wheel (column 2, lines 16-26). Wakayama teaches that this cutter wheel minimizes any possible slip of the cutting disc relative to a glass product to be cut (column 2, lines 6-11).

Therefore, at the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to use the method taught by Kohyama et al., and further use the grooved cutting wheel taught by Wakayama, since Wakayama teaches that this cutting wheel minimizes any possible slip of the cutting disc relative to a glass product to be cut.

Since Kohyama et al. and Wakayama together teach the concept that links Species I and II, it is not an inventive linking concept.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
